

"On the Line"

(chorus)

Stop the trains, here once again
The time has come, so much to gain
Step on board, we'll journey far
On the line, that's where we are

The past will be the future
When trains will stop once more
And Blackford has its station
Far places to explore
Across this great old country
From north and south they'll run
A new beginning has begun

The times they are a changing
The wheels of progress turn
And steel tracks point the way ahead
To build from this platform
And people of the village
Will see a dream come true
When our station will re-open
And old days become new
